

Congratulations Brookfield

for being recognized as a

Smart Rural Community!

A smart rural community relies not only on high-speed internet access but also on teams of highly motivated and collaborative leaders—the people behind the technology. From manufacturers and application developers to telecommunications providers and ultimately the users who adopt and employ broadband-enabled services, it takes a lot of people to create a smart rural community, and encourage its continued development and evolution.

OPPORTUNITY

Residents within a Smart Rural Community® are no longer limited by their rural location, as fiber allows for economic development, population sustainability and growth, remote work, e-learning, telemedicine and more.

FIBER CONNECTIVITY

Broadband internet closes the urban-rural divide and connects mid-Missouri communities to the world.

The Smart Rural Community designation celebrates Brookfield's success!

- Local businesses use fiber connectivity and online platforms to market products, engage customers, and support business growth.
- Brookfield R-III students utilize online resources to complete assignments and communicate with teachers.
- Telehealth resources help residents access medical care while supporting Pershing Health System.
- Remote and hybrid work opportunities allow residents to participate in the broader economy.
- Agricultural businesses, producers, and organizations such as Ag-Land and MFA rely on broadband for markets, weather information, record keeping, equipment systems, and daily operations.
- Local Luxuries demonstrates how online commerce can help entrepreneurs grow from online sales into successful brick-and-mortar businesses.
